President's Year End Message
Spring 2017

Dear Regis Community,

The end of another academic year presents itself this weekend as we celebrate students receiving a Regis diploma. To our graduating students: whether you are receiving an undergraduate, graduate or doctoral degree, I applaud you for achieving this milestone. I congratulate you for your hard work, dedication to your studies and contributions to the Regis community and beyond. To faculty and staff: I offer a special thanks for an exceptional commitment to our educational mission and the students entrusted to our care.

Since the founding of Jesuit education, every generation has graduated into a world of immense challenge and possibility. This age is no exception. We know from many courageous conversations that Regis is a microcosm of American culture that has much work to do. At the same time, we have much to celebrate in every one of our students. You make us proud for who you have become, whether a post-traditional student advancing in a profession, or a younger graduate entering the workforce for the first time.

To our graduates, I say: It has been a privilege to be your President. To those students who continue their studies with us, I look forward to the next academic year where we will continue to ask hard questions and together find answers that will make Regis, and the world, a better place.

As your President, I have immense hope for the future, because I have seen who you are and what you can do.

I pray God's blessings on each and every one of you as you head into the summer and the year ahead.

Gratefully,

John P. Fitzgibbons, S.J.
President
