1887.

College of the Sacred Heart.

CONDUCTED BY THE JESUIT FATHERS.

I.

THE College, intended for boarders, is situated at Morrison, a short distance west of Denver. It is reached either by private conveyance or by rail.

The location of the College strongly recommends it to parents, especially to those that have delicate children.

During the present year several boys coming from distant points in the east and south have been received; they were sent to the College chiefly on account of health and they have been greatly benefited by their stay.

The climate of this region is universally conceded to be the healthiest in the United States, and added to this the diversified and magnificent mountain scenery, and the opportunities for walks at once instructive and of surpassing interest, leave nothing to be desired for the College in point of situation.

II.

Besides the ordinary branches of a classical and commercial education, the course of studies includes Modern Languages, Natural Sciences, Music—Vocal and Instrumental—Drawing and Painting.

While appreciating the value of the ancient classical languages as a means of education, the Directors of the College believe that their value may easily be exaggerated, and that much of the time commonly devoted to the study of them might with profit be given to the study of the vernacular.

English, in their opinion, should not be subordinated to Latin and Greek, but amongst the languages studied in an English-speaking country, should receive the first and fullest attention.

English Grammar is taught as a science, but it is always accompanied by practical language-work and made subservient to the art of expression in writing and speech. Even in the lowest classes, the pupils are exercised in composition.

Modern languages are a specialty of the Institution. French, German, Spanish and Italian are taught, each by a Professor, whose vernacular it is, without extra charge.

They are taught according to what is known as the natural method; so that the boys learn not only to read and write, but to speak the language that they study.

During the week there are certain times appointed for French, German and Spanish conversation.

In the judgment of the Directors, certain sciences, for example physics, botany and physiology, can be taught profitably, and made interesting, even to boys comparatively young, and are valuable, not only for the knowledge they impart, but as a mental discipline.

Great attention is paid to Elocution. All the students are thoroughly drilled six times a week, according to an approved system. Gesture and vocal culture are taught systematically from the elements of the art to the various expressions of passion, and dialogues and declamations are an every-day exercise.

Every month a bulletin is sent to parents showing the standing of their sons in each branch.

Following is the fac simile of the bulletin:

III.

To develop and strengthen the moral character, in the first place, and in the second place, to promote good breeding are objects of the greatest solicitude, and are the chief ends of the College regulations.

To insure the first: no boy is received or kept whose morals are objectionable. To insure the second: everything—even to the material surroundings of the boys—is so ordered, that while they have the benefit of College discipline, they may lack none of the refinements or comforts of home life.

As will be seen from the Bulletin, the first place is given to Religious Duties, the second to Personal Neatness and Politeness. These latter are considered and dealt with as matters of paramount importance. Every impropriety in conduct and speech is noted and explained to the one who is guilty of it, and marks are given daily to the boys, according to the excellence of their deportment. In the dining-room one of the Fathers always presides, whose chief duty is to correct all deficiencies in table etiquette. On the whole, we venture to affirm that in no institution whatever, is greater or more constant care taken of the social education of boys.

IV.

Especial attention is given to the physical development of the students. The Class-rooms, Dormitories and Study-hall are well lighted and perfectly ventilated; the play-ground is extensive and beautiful; there is an abundance of games, both in-door and out-door. In winter there are ample facilities for skating, and in summer for bathing. The gymnasium is well appointed and the boys take systematic exercise daily, under the direction of an experienced master. Athletic sports and games receive every encouragement, and daily marks are given for proficiency in them.

V.

As it is eminently desirable and important to impress a distinctive character on the College, especially while it is still young, and to create the right atmosphere among the boys, the College authorities are not anxious about the number of students, but only about their quality. They will, therefore, decline to receive applicants whose morals are not irreproachable, or who are over sixteen years of age.*

Parents, then, in making application for their children, should state precisely the age of the candidate for admission and the studies he has made, and besides, they are required to present satisfactory evidence of his good moral character. Unless these conditions are fulfilled, no applicant shall be received into the College as a student.

Difference of creed is not a bar to admission.

German, French, Spanish and Italian are taught free.

The only extra charges are for Music—Vocal and Instrumental—Drawing and Painting.

No deduction will be made for absence or withdrawal from the College, except on account of sickness or dismissal, and in these cases no deduction will be made for a shorter time than one month.

Books, stationery, clothes, etc., are furnished by the parents, or they can, if so desired, be supplied by the College at current prices. In the latter case a deposit for that purpose should be made with the Treasurer. No advances will be made beyond the deposit.

Pocket money, if any be allowed, should be left in the hands of the Treasurer, to be given according to the direction of the parents.

These directions, especially with regard to the weekly or daily amount to be given, should be very explicit.

VII.

As to clothing, all the College requires is that each student should have, in quality and quantity, what befits a young gentleman. However, as necessary articles are sometimes overlooked in packing trunks, it may be useful to give a list of the essential things:

White spread, blankets and comforter for bed; three pairs of bed sheets; three pillow cases; four changes of underclothing; eight shirts; three night-shirts; three celluloid collars; eight pairs of socks or stockings; three pairs of shoes or boots; one pair of overshoes; six table napkins; eight towels; twelve handkerchiefs; pitcher and wash-basin; foot bath tub; combs; scissors; brushes for the hair, the ear, the teeth, the nails, the clothes, and the shoes; knife and fork (two sets); spoons and napkin-ring.

All articles should be distinctly marked with the number of the boy; this number will be given by the President when answering the application.

In order to have uniformity, certain articles must be alike. These are the white spread, pitcher and basin, foot bath tub, knives and forks, spoons and napkin-ring. They can be furnished by the College, if desired, at current prices.

VIII.

As the College is still too young to be well or widely known, and as many important things have not been touched upon in the Prospectus, we beg to refer to all our students and their families ; to the Rt. Rev. Bishop Machebeuf, and all the pastors in Colorado ; to the Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor, and the pastors in Nebraska and Wyoming.

Parents are invited to visit Morrison and judge for themselves. For as the formation of a child is a matter of such very great importance, parents should acquaint themselves thoroughly with regard to everything connected with the College to which they intrust their children. The kind of education it gives, the methods it employs, the material comforts and benefits it affords, are things that merit a careful examination, and this can best be made in person.

The marks upon which depend the medals and other prizes begin to be given on the first day of class, and so for those who come late it is very difficult, generally impossible, to make up for what they have lost. Among the young gentlemen who, on this account, have not been able to compete for class prizes, the following, by their excellent conduct and proficiency, merit an honorable mention :

1. J. Hervey Nichols.
2. Narciso Martinez.
3. Alvis D. Hamlin.
4. Manuel de A. Esquibel.
5. Joseph I. Martinez.
6. Louis Nusbaum.
7. John Aloysius Wright.
8. Matthew MacNamara.
