REGIS ROUNDUP

Summer 1973

Cultural Treasure Trove Uncovered at Regis

By: Father Thomas Steele, S.J.

A year or two before the turn of the century, one of the Jesuit priests who manned the science department of Sacred Heart College took a field trip down into the Four-Corners area where Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah meet. It was almost certainly Father Armand W. Forstall, metallurgist, chemist, geologist, and mathematician. Fortunately, he didn't stick to any one of his specialties, but tourist-fashion brought home to the college several boxes of Pueblo pottery — a total of perhaps sixty pieces. These were kept in the science area of the Pink Palace, which was at the turn of the century practically the whole of the Regis physical plant. In the twenties they were taken over to the new labs in Carroll Hall dorm, and finally in the sixties moved to the new Science Building, where they sat in a display case in the hallway, uncleaned and unlabeled. A good excuse for the last omission was that there was no documentation with them at all excepting a scrap of paper with the unsatisfying words "Near Adamana, partly from Winslow, Ariz. . . part in N.M. . . Navajo Indians found . . . 1898-99 . . . prehistoric . . . Prof. Jensen in charge of Mesaverde . . . Prof. Smiley." Not much to go on.

This effigy jar of the twelfth or thirteenth century from Chaco Canon in New Mexico is the star of our show. This type of jar probably originated in the Mississippi River valley and spread from there to other areas including the Southwest; it was likely used to hold a ceremonial item such as sacred corn-pollen.

religious ritual and myth suited to an agricultural people, one directed to insuring the fertility of their crops, especially the coming of rain when it was needed. As they had become sedentary, they had begun to make pottery — which of course a nomadic people would spend all its time breaking and gluing back together.

The descendants of the Pueblo Indians still live in the Rio Grande River valley from Taos south to Albuquerque and on the mesas and plateaus west from there to the Hopi villages in Arizona.

These were the people who made the pots that Regis had; but the question remained: which items came from which periods and which places?

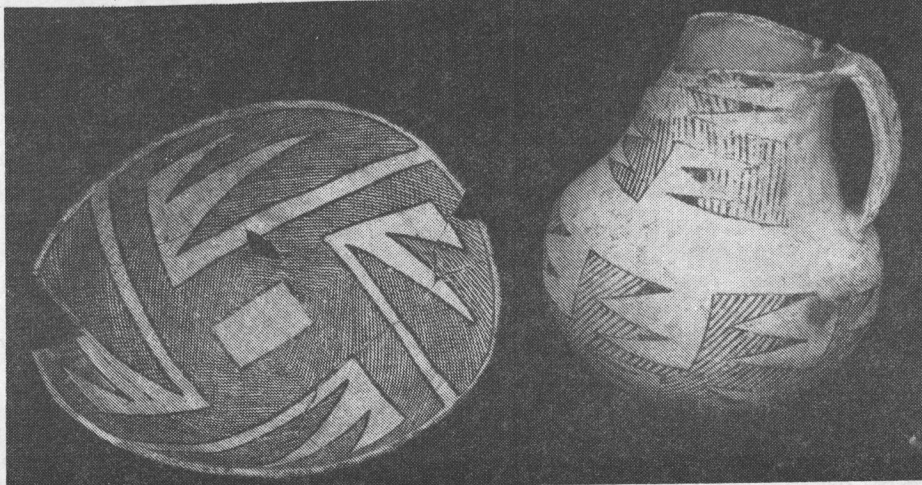

IN the 1970's, Regis College saw the beginning of a modest minority studies program and the addition of anthropology to the social science area. With this, it became highly desirable to make an investigation of the neglected collection. Some of the pottery was cleaned with weak hydrochloric acid to remove the deposit of calcium that had formed on the surface while the bowls had lain buried in the earth through many centuries, with water trickling down after ever rainstorm; designs of startling clarity often appeared, most often deftly drawn in black lines on a brilliantly white background. Then the Denver Museum of Natural History was kind enough to lend Regis the expertise of Mr. Robert Akerley, their curator of Southwestern art, who examined the collection and was able to tell us that we were the lucky owners of a collection which, almost certainly rather by accident than design, happened to be nicely representative of the main strands of the Pueblo tradition. There was some material from the "Developmental Pueblo" period of about 700-1100 A.D., and a great deal from many areas of the "Great Pueblo" era of 1100-1300, including some from Mesa Verde in southwestern Colorado, a very fine group from Chaco Canon in northwestern New Mexico, a few very fine pieces from the

The eagle is especially sacred to the Hopi Indians of today's Arizona. The design on this creamy yellow bowl, drawn by an ancestor of theirs seven centuries ago, shows in X-ray fashion a lightning-and-arrow "lifeline" running from the bird's heart out through its mouth. This is an age-old primitive artistic technique, as is the profiled head with both eyes visible: PERSPECTIVE TORDUE, twisted perspective, familiar to us in the cubist paintings of Pablo Picasso.

The pottery was, at any rate, the work of the Pueblo people, a group of southwestern Indian tribes who had developed a unique way of life long before Columbus got lost trying to find India. These Indians had wandered through the semi-arid plateaus of the Four-Corner Area for perhaps hundreds of years, hunting and gathering what unaided nature offered them. Then, gradually over the course of centuries they became dominantly agricultural, settled down in "apartment houses" they learned to build, developed great irrigation systems which demanded large amounts of manpower to maintain, and evolved a system of

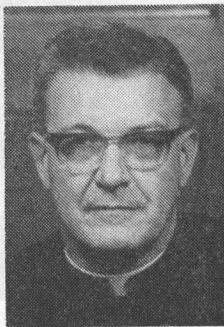

The fragile thinness of Chaco Canon ware and the precise parallel lines decorating these two examples have influenced the pottery of modern Acoma, a pueblo separated by eighty miles and eight centuries.

Our New Look

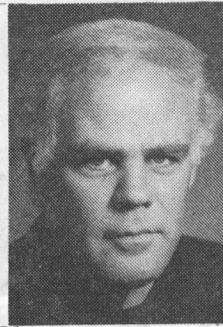

Beginning with this issue of the Roundup we are changing our format to a tabloid newspaper. Alumni will receive the new Roundup four times a year. In addition, a new magazine will be coming out twice a year with articles of interest to Alumni and non-alumni alike.

By using a tabloid format we save money and increase the news we send you about Regis. Please send your comments or suggestions to me at Regis.

Board Expanded Four Trustees Named

Four Jesuit leaders of Catholic education in the United States have been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Regis Educational Corporation, which operates Regis College and Regis High School. In June Rev. Thomas J. Casey, S.J., chairman of the Board of Trustees, announced the following new members:

Rev. Dr. James Hennessey, S.J., recently named president of Bellarmine School of Theology, the divinity school of Loyola University of Chicago, effective August 1.

Rev. Dr. Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of Saint Louis University, St. Louis, Missouri, for 24 years.

Rev. John Reinke, S.J., president of Loyola Academy, Wilmette, Illinois, since 1965.

Rev. Dr. Robert Jerome Starratt, S.J., who became principal of Regis High School on May 31, upon the resignation of Rev. James Baker who will enter doctoral studies next fall.

Other trustees, all members of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits) are: Rev. Dr. David M. Clarke, president of the Regis Educational Corporation; Rev. James H. Baker, former Regis High School principal; Rev. Dr. William T. Miller, associate professor of chemistry at Regis College; Rev. Dr. Harold L. Stansell, professor of history at the college; and Rev. Arthur O. Verdieck, of the Regis High School faculty.

Father Casey said the Trustees had decided to enlarge the Board in order to strengthen and enrich it by the addition of men with broad experience and outstanding qualifications.

"Trustees of the high calibre of our four new members will bring stature to Regis and also will assist immeasurably in reaching decisions assuring the future of the Regis Educational Corporation," he added.

Father Hennessey, a leading historian of American Catholicism, has been professor of modern church history at Jesuit School of Theology at Berkeley (California) since 1971. Previously he served nine years on the faculty at Fordham University in New York. He also has been a visiting professor at the Gregorian University (Rome), Union Theological Seminary (New York), Memorial University of Newfoundland and Stanford University. He holds an A.B. degree from Loyola University and he completed his theological studies at Woodstock College before being ordained to the priesthood in 1957. His Ph.D. in history was earned in 1963 at Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

Father Reinert, a native of Boulder, Colorado, has earned a national reputation as an outstanding educator, author, citizen and intellectual. He holds 16 honorary degrees in addition to an earned Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, a licentiate in sacred theology and A.M. and A.B. degrees from Saint Louis University. He is chairman of the Association of American Colleges, president of the National Council of Independent Colleges and Universities and is a member of numerous councils, commissions and boards.

Before becoming president of Loyola Academy, Father Reinke served there as rector, headmaster and director of guidance. An accomplished pianist, he is believed to be the first priest in the United States to appear as a soloist with a major symphony orchestra. He also has produced TV variety programs and performed regularly in the Loyola Community Theatre Forum. His doctoral studies at Loyola were in psychology and his experience includes service in state hospitals and the Cook County Psychopathic Hospital. He earned an M.A. from Loyola in Greek.

Father Starratt has been recognized nationally for his leadership role in developing the Jesuit Secondary Education Association and is considered to be an authority on curriculum theory and on high school program design. He was principal of Fairfield (Connecticut) Preparatory School before coming to Regis High School as associate principal in 1972. He has helped revamp the Regis program by introducing many innovations and providing for more coordination with Regis College. Father Starratt has a doctorate from the University of Illinois and a licentiate in sacred theology from Weston College in Weston, Massachusetts.

Denver Alumni Organize Chapter

Denver area alumni met May 9 to formally organize their chapter and moved ahead rapidly so that the group would be functioning in time to coordinate the Golf Tournament, the All Alumni Picnic and the 1973-74 Roundtable Luncheon Series.

Those attending were: Bill Fortune '69, Bill Meurer '65, Rev. Paul Max '69, Bill Deline '56, Regis Malloy '59, Jim Sena '58, Rich Feely '63, Greg Stutz '68, Mike Schiff '69, Greg Hencmann '73, and Larry Durand from the college staff.

A petition for chapter affiliation was circulated and the ten required signatures were gathered.

The next item was the election of officers. Elected were: President — Bill Fortune; Vice-president (president elect) — Bill Meurer; Secretary-Treasurer — Rev. Paul Max.

Considerable discussion followed as to the need for a constitution and by-laws as well as how to present the results of this meeting to the Denver area alumni as a whole. It was agreed that a simplified constitution and set of by-laws should be drafted. The officers agreed to meet and determine guidelines to be used in the constitution and by-laws. Greg Stutz, an attorney, accepted the responsibility to chair a committee whose responsibility it will be to draft the constitution and by-laws.

The first activity scheduled is a beer bust slated for July 27.

Other chapter activities include — MILWAUKEE: Ted Fota ('60) and Tom Sullivan ('63) put together a chapter formation gathering at the Milwaukee

81 Years of Service Honored

Eighty One years of service to Regis College and Regis High School were honored January 31 at a testimonial dinner for the Rev. Stephen R. Krieger, S.J., and the Rev. Bernard S. Karst, S.J. in the Grand Ballroom of the Brown Palace Hotel.

Father Krieger has taught mathematics at Regis High School for 41 years and Father Karst served both the high school and the college for 40 years.

Among the guests attending the event were Astronaut John L. Swigert, Jr., the Most Rev. George R. Evans, auxiliary bishop of Denver, and many Colorado civic and social leaders.

At the conclusion of the evening a check for $53,000 was presented to the high school to establish an endowed scholarship fund by the special gifts chairmen, John R. Moran, Jr., Vincent N. Schmitz, and Thomas A. Waters.

Willson Receives Honorary Degree

Composer-conductor Meredith Willson received an honorary degree of doctor of fine arts at the college's annual Honors Convocation, March 16 in the Field House. Willson was honored for his many contributions to the enrichment of American life through both popular and serious music.

Known to many as "Mr. Music Man" because of his authorship of one of the nation's most popular musicals, Meredith Willson is a musician, conductor, composer, writer and actor. Coloradans know him especially for the "Unsinkable Molly Brown" but he also has been acclaimed for hits such as "Here's Love," "You and I," "I See the Moon," and "It's beginning to Look Like Christmas."

The convocation also featured the annual Faculty Lecture, delivered by the Rev. Edward L. Maginnis, S.J. theology professor and chairman of the Theology Department. Father Maginnis has taught at Regis since 1958 and has also participated in the development of a fine arts program and in many community activities, primarily in the arts.

Father Clarke Kicks Off Luncheon Series

Colleges are good for business because they create discriminating customers, president Clarke told a group of Denver alumni and businessmen earlier this year at the first of a series of Downtown Regis Roundtable luncheons held in Denver.

Father Clarke said the primary function of a college or university is to focus on values, principles and goals.

"This pursuit of values, principles and goals actually results in a public with which a businessman can have credibility," he said. "The American businessman does not want a public that can be COMPLETELY swayed by advertising alone. He wants customers who can think, reason, understand what is value and what isn't. He wants customers who can make up their minds and stick with their decisions. Otherwise, the public would be so fluid, so flexible that whoever advertised this week would get all the business."

He said colleges and universities provide needed forums "where people can come together and confront a wide spectrum of ideas and commitments, evaluate them, then internalize those that he or she chooses, and finally pass on to others the new insights and understandings that one has gained from the experience."

Private colleges perform these functions in a uniquely effective way, he added. The colleges also provide a forum for religious discussion, he said, noting that many Catholics still are "in a state of shock" because of the changes within the church that have occurred during the past 10 years. He cited three "flavors" of Catholics:

- Those who preferred the old days
- Those who like the changes but want no more
- Those who want ever-accelerating change

Father Clarke called for understanding and prayerful confrontation among these three schools of thought. He said Regis includes members of all three schools "and is proud of this fact."

He described Regis as cosmopolitan with more than half the student body of 1,200 coming from outside a 300-mile radius and with about 15 percent being Catholic and almost 40 percent being women. "We Catholics don't live in a ghetto any longer, and we don't want Regis to be a ghetto," he said.

Among the recent changes at Regis cited by Father Clarke were:

Increased emphasis on personal responsibility rather than imposed, monastic-style discipline.

More demanding academic programs.

Increasing numbers of women and of laymen on the staff, which is now only 25 percent Jesuit compared to 100 percent a decade ago.

The Regis goal, however, continues to be "to better equip a person to enter the industrial, professional or educational fields by providing an atmosphere in which the student can be educated, broadened and humanized while probing the fundamental questions of his or her life," he said.

News Briefs

National Alumni Board Meets

THE NATIONAL ALUMNI BOARD CONVENED AT REGIS during Parents' Weekend. Those attending included Daniel J. Dalpes, Denver, William J. Deline, Denver, David H. Eby, Jr., M.D., San Francisco, George H. Eckert, Albuquerque, Edwin J. Feulner, Jr., President of the NAB, Washington, D.C., Theodore J. Foti, Milwaukee, Regis P. Malloy, Denver, Charles J. McCarthy, Chicago, Patrick J. O'Malley, Omaha, Eugene P. O'Neal, St. Louis, Donald N. Pacheco, Denver, James R. Sena, Denver, Thomas J. Tracy, Los Angeles, James J. Waters, III, Denver and the Hon. L. Paul Weadick, Denver. Greg Henemann and Bill Gold were student representatives. On Friday night the Board was entertained in the Jesuit community for dinner. Business sessions were held Saturday and Sunday. The program for the annual meeting included a report from Regis President, David M. Clarke, S.J., and a talk on "Jesuit Education in the 70's" by Robert J. Starratt, S.J., Associate Principal of Regis High School.

Human Dignity Week

Among the speakers at the first Regis College "Human Dignity Week" January 29 to February 2 were: Dr. Hanna Gray, dean of arts and sciences at Northwestern University and the first woman arts and sciences dean in the "Big Ten" colleges; The Rev. Walter J. Ong, S.J., author and scholar in both the Renaissance and contemporary culture and a professor of English at St. Louis University; Prof. Elise Boulding, associate professor of sociology at the University of Colorado and a project director in the CU Institute of Behavioral Sciences; and the Rev. Mr. Walden Toeves, Boulder county commissioner and former CU chaplain.

Another speaker was Mrs. Cynthia Warrick Kemper, an authority on the arts, member of the President's advisory committee on the Arts, John F. Kennedy Center, and co-founder of the Performing Arts Foundation in Kansas City, Mo.

Tuition Hike

President David M. Clarke, S.J., announced in April that the college would raise its tuition by five dollars, to $55 a credit hour, next fall. Another five dollar increase will become effective in the fall of 1974.

In a message to the Regis students and staff, Father Clarke said Regis was affected by rising costs in the same way that all other areas have been affected.

Father Clarke said Regis tuition was the lowest among private four-year colleges in Colorado and among the lowest at comparable Jesuit colleges.

Summer Theology Workshop

Several nationally known educators, lecturers and entertainers were on the Regis College campus in May as part of a summer workshop in theology.

Comedian Mort Sahl; Marshall McLuhan, author and lecturer; George Leonard writer and educator; Khigh Diegh, Taoist spiritual leader, were among out-of-state speakers who presented evening programs at the Regis Field House.

Two Initiated into Alpha Sigma Nu

A prominent Denver businessman and a Regis College professor have been chosen for membership in Alpha Sigma Nu, honorary fraternity for Jesuits.

The two men, John J. Sullivan, president of Bosworth Sullivan and Co., Denver investment firm, and Dr. William Levings, professor of geology at Regis, were initiated February 22 at the Regis College Center. Both graduated from Regis College in 1915.

Alpha Sigma Nu has 6,000 members in the United States. Membership is based on scholarship, loyalty and service. The Regis chapter was founded in 1966.

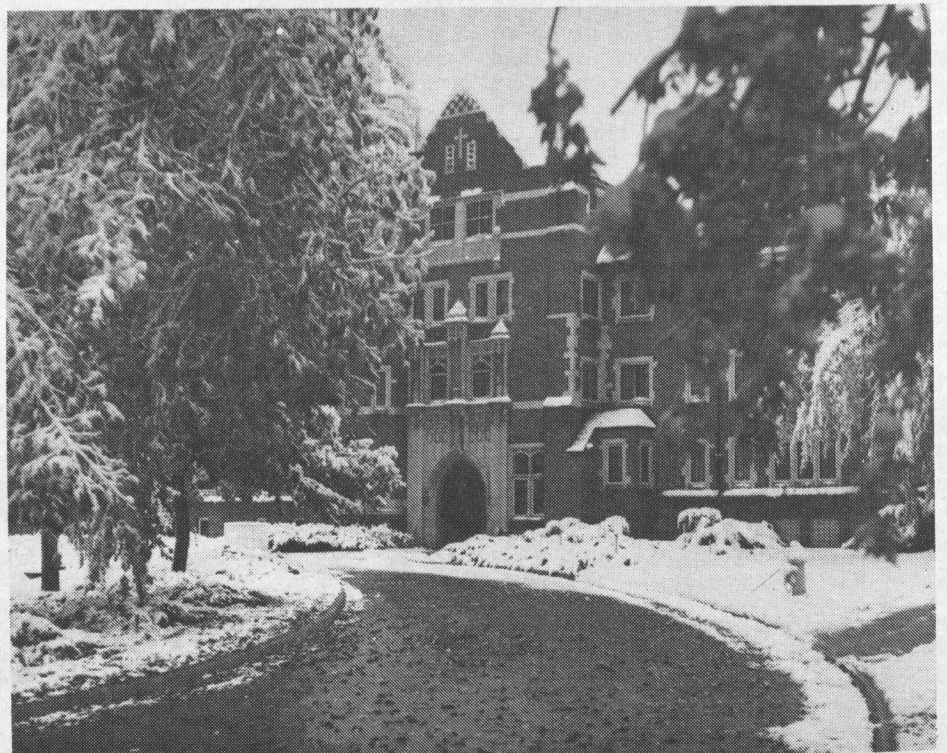

Sullivan is a trustee of the Bonfils Foundation and the Denver Foundation and is active in many civic groups. He is past president of the Rotary Club of Denver, Denver Community Chest, and the Board of Governors of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms. He is past chairman of the Board of Governors of the National Association of Securities Dealers, and past governor of the Investment Bankers Association. In 1942 he was designated Knight at St. Gregory the Great by Pope Pius XII, and in 1961 he was named a Knight of Malta.

Regis College honored him in 1966 by presenting to him the coveted Civis Princeps (First Citizen) Award.

Dr. Levings joined the Regis College faculty in 1957 after serving 31 years on the faculty of the Colorado School of Mines from which he received both masters and doctoral degrees in science. His articles on geology have appeared in many publications. In 1972 he received the Regis Outstanding Faculty Award at the Spring Honors Banquet. In 1965 he was presented with the Alumni Achievement Award.

The Colorado moderator for Alpha Sigma Nu is the Rev. Francis J. Moriarty, associate professor of philosophy at Regis.

50 Years Young

Carroll Hall, home to thousands of Regis students during their four years at college, will be fifty years old this year. Constructed at a cost of $254,000 in 1923, Carroll was the only residence hall for college students until O'Connell was completed in 1957. During World War II Carroll housed students from the High School and faculty members in addition to college students. So that we can keep our archives up to date we'd like to encourage anyone who has any stories of human interest connected with Carroll Hall during the fifty years it has served as surrogate home for Regis students to drop a note to the editor of the ROUNDUP at Regis.

Alumni Notes

With this issue of the Roundup we are beginning the Class Secretary program for the college. The response from alumni has been impressive and we now have 25 classes represented. The secretaries are sent whatever information we at the college have about you out there, including the "What's New" cards everyone should have received several months ago. They toss in whatever they may know about their classmates' comings and goings and ship the finished product back to Regis for the Roundup. You will notice that we still have a number of classes for which there is no secretary. Anyone interested in serving as Secretary for two years should contact the Roundup editor, either by telephone or mail.

We would also encourage you to communicate with your secretary directly if you have an item of interest or just want to keep in touch!

He took the Medical Supply course at Fort Sam Houston, Texas and was then assigned as Division Medical Supply Officer, 25th Infantry Division, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii. "Since that time I have remained with the same unit (25th Medical Battalion) and will soon be promoted to 1st LT. (Thank God) I plan on obtaining my real estate license on my off duty hours and possibly go into that field once I leave the Army in January of 75."

Doug Tisdale writes: "Am gearing up for the crunch of first year finals here at U. of M. Law. I was recently elected Vice-Justice of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, Campbell Chapter, and Most Active Freshman. Will be clerking for a law firm in Farmington, Mich. this summer. My wife, Patricia, and I will be visiting Regis sometime in the summer to see Fr. Maginnis and for possible job interviews."

Paul Zurkuhlen comments: "I'm helping preserve peace with honor by typing wills in the Ft. Myer, Virginia, Army Legal Assistance Office." He is married to Jeanne Carberry (Santa Clara '71) and they have a daughter, Margaret.

No generalizations fit the class of 1967 except that, unlike many other classes, few of its members seem to have stayed in the Denver area. Graduates reporting in are scattered all the way from Los Angeles to Georgia.

Predominant occupations would seem to be teaching and law. Tom Locke, W'67, is living and practicing law in Fort Wayne, Indiana, after graduating from Valparaiso University School of Law. Mike Martin, who received a Root Tilden Scholarship in law upon graduation from Regis, went on to graduate from New York University School of Law, and is now back in Denver practicing with the firm of Holland and Hart. He and his wife, Kam, have two sons, and now live at 2515 Leyden Street. In 1967, the betting was that the hangman would get Mike before respectability did, but he seems to have defined the odds. Jim Scott graduated from D.U. Law School this last September, and was admitted to the practice of law in Colorado several months ago. Michael Sise is corporate counsel for McDonald's Corporation, and is living in Chicago at 9326 South Claremont, and has a new son, Daniel Michael. Rumor is that one of Mike's fringe benefits is a lifetime pass to McDonald's Drive-Ins. Dan Cullan, after graduating from Creighton Law School in Omaha, Nebraska, married Mary Frances Trotter. In May, 1972, the Cullans were blessed with a son, Daniel B. Cullan, II. Dan has recently become a partner in the law firm of Cullan, Morrison and Cullan, in Omaha. Al Bicknell, after serving as a VISTA volunteer with the Yakima Indian Fishermen on the Columbia River in Washington State, married Jacqueline Lee of Green Brook, New Jersey, and has recently entered Western New England College of Law in Springfield, Massachusetts. Al's new address is 23 Rivercrest, Hanover, New Hampshire 03755.

Michael "Mad Dog" Hacke, forever enshrined in the annals of Carroll Hall life, is living in Cumming, Georgia, where he works for Family and Childrens Services in Fulton County. Mike and his wife, Mildred, are the proud parents of a son, Frederick Michael, who was born April 3, 1972. Joe Walmsley obtained conscientious objector status in 1970, and served two years of national service as an agent of the Utah Adult Probation and Parole Department in Salt Lake. He is now the Social Service Director of the Project Reality Heroin Treatment Center in Salt Lake City. Bill Green received his degree in dentistry from Kansas City Dental College last May, was commissioned a Captain in the army, and is now stationed at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, near Tucson, with the Army Medical Corps. Bill, his wife Suzanne, and son Billy, hope to return to practice in Colorado after two years in the service. Bill Stack and Mike O'Neill are both fulfilling life-long interests in police work, Mike serving with the Denver Police Department and Bill as a Sergeant of Police on the Los Angeles Police Department. Bill is also attending the California University at Los Angeles, working towards a Master's Degree. He has been with the Los Angeles Police Department for seven years.

The long hours and hard efforts of Brian McGuire, Mark Stephan, Terry Kennedy, and Mike Kent finally paid off, and all four are reported to be practicing medicine. Brian McGuire is a second-year resident in surgery at the University of Colorado Medical Center in Denver. Mark Stephan, when last heard from, was doing his residency at the University of Washington in Seattle. Mike's and Terry's exact whereabouts are unknown, and we would appreciate a short note from them.

Speaking of doctors, both Gary Kress and John Nairn have received their doctorates, Gary in Psychology and John in Theoretical Chemical-Physics. Gary spent the last year as part of the Department of Psychology teaching staff at Regis College, and John is currently living in Longmont, Colorado, with his wife, Ruth, working at Hewlett-Packard in Loveland as a computer analyst.

Proving that there is no justice, Wally McNeill would seem to be playing as much tennis now as he did before acquiring the responsibilities of marriage and parenthood. Wally married Ann Rita Kienstra in 1968, and has a son, Christopher McNeill, who was born in July, 1969. Wally is working at Kienstra Supply Company in Wood River, Illinois. Dave McConville married Mary Ann Allman in August, 1971, and is working as an account executive at Walston and Co., Inc., a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Dave is living in Evanston, Illinois, and most recently enjoyed meeting Fr. Clark and several "Ranchers" at a pleasant Woodsie given by Charlie McCarthy, Class of '59, in Northbrook. Rumor is that he bumps into Ralph Truono occasionally, who graduated from DePaul Law School, and when last heard from was with the Illinois State Attorney General's office.

Bill Calandrella was recently promoted to a new job in the financial area of I.B.M., and has been transferred to the I.B.M. plant in San Jose, California. Bill and his family can be reached at 6206 Via de Adrianna in San Jose. Mike Reynolds passed his C.P.A. examination while working at Alexander Grant and Co. in Denver, and is now the Chief Cost Accountant for Oklahoma Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Tulsa. Mike is married and has two daughters, Angela and Rebecca.

We have word that Larry Ottele received his Master's in Economics from Western Illinois University in Macomb, Illinois, in 1972. Leonard Muniz is working as an accountant with Shell Oil in Denver, and is presently the Accounting Supervisor with Shell. Leonard has been spending a great deal of time with Denver Boys, Inc., and with Cub Scouts in the Denver area. Roger Bartholomew is living in Littleton, and served the last two years as an accounting and finance officer at Brooks Air Force Base, in Texas. After separation from the Air Force, he assumed the position of Division Comptroller for Safelite Industries, Inc., in Denver. Roger is married to the former Julie Weber, and is expecting his first child in August of this year. A daughter, Maureen Bridget, was born to Leo S. McGee and his wife, Mary, on December 3, 1972. Quiet Ed Fitzpatrick is still staying out of trouble, and is now Assistant Pastor at St. Paul's Rectory in Burlington, Iowa, where he also teaches at Notre Dame High School. Mike Begnaud and wife, Mary, were recently transferred to Rockford, Illinois, from Seattle. Al White has been working on the Ski Patrol at Winter Park, and doing accounting and carpentry in the off-season. Doug Vasquez recently graduated from the University of Denver College of Law, and when last heard from, was planning to practice law in Colorado.

Much of the above information came as a result of letters and cards mailed in to the College by former classmates. Some of it is necessarily second-hand, and we hope it is accurate. Many of your classmates would like to stay in touch with you, and we hope that you will continue to drop us a line and keep us apprised of your whereabouts.

It always proves interesting every ten years or so to glance back and take a quick look at what has transpired in the lives of former classmates. Whether the years have held moves and giant steps forward for those who hail 1961 as the year they left the academic world of Regis or simply record marriage to the "girl next door," let's take a look at what time has yielded for a few of our classmates who responded to our inquiry:

Larry Blackford has contributed to the population by the addition of his son, Andrew Paul, born August 23, 1972.

The Air Force has been the setting for the career of George R. Boersig, now a major and stationed at Holloman AFB, New Mexico. He serves as a Group Development Engineer with the Technical Support Division.

Thomas F. Brennan, M.D. is currently practicing medicine in Lafayette, Indiana. He is Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist.

Receiving his masters in History and Sociology, Arthur W. Grant has followed through and is now an Instructor of History with the Continuing Education Branch of New Mexico State University at the White Sands Missile Range Education Center.

Richard B. Heil has followed the road to Wall Street and is a representative of Edward D. Jones & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange. Dick noted that in the summer of 1972 he attended the celebration of Jim Guyer's first Mass in Fort Collins. The Heils have a 15 month old boy, Clay. They now reside in Loveland.

Recently promoted from Assistant to Associate Professor of Business in the Division of Business at Southern Oregon College, Dr. Thomas Hitzelberger is currently chairman of the Marketing Department.

William B. Houston is presently employed as a Tax Attorney with Phillips Petroleum Company. They now reside in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, the home office of Phillips.

White Plains, New York, is the new address for the Donald L. Hupperts. They have two children, the youngest just born on February 28 of this year. Congratulations!

Now director of Newborn and Intensive Care Nurseries at Denver General Hospital and a faculty member of the University of Colorado School of Medicine, Owen P. O'Meara, M.D. is certainly kept busy. He married Carol Lynn Meyer of Washington, D.C. in July of 1971.

Thomas Scaglia is currently serving as president of Catholic Alumni Clubs International, an organization of 50 clubs in major cities in the U.S. and Canada.

Since 1970, Dennis J. Seitz has been the Assistant District Attorney for the 5th judicial district and serves on the school board of Lake City District no. 1. He is the City Attorney for Leadville and is active in a variety of civic and community activities. Obviously, he is quite busy, but comments that he enjoys mountain life.

Thomas J. Tracy is the father of a brand new girl, Katherine Carney, having just arrived in the world on March 8, 1973.

Eds. Note: Jim Waters is a commodity technical analyst with Shearson, Hammill in Denver where he writes a nationwide daily technical analysis for Shearson.

During a visit to Washington, D.C. this month, I had the occasion to visit with Lt. Col. Harvey J. Morgan, U.S.M.C. and wife Marilyn Weber Morgan (Loretto Heights — '56). Parents of five children, the Morgans are preparing for a July move to Seattle, Washington. Harvey has spent the last couple of years at Headquarters, Marine Corps in the nation's capital. His career includes three overseas tours, two in Vietnam. The Morgan's children are John, Mike, Suzanne, David and Brian — all active in Scouting.

Don Kaufold reports his recent move to Country View Estates in Naperville, Illinois. Don works as Territory Manager for Home Comfort Products Company, marketing their building industry products in four states. Married fourteen years, he is the father of four boys and one girl. Must have the same combination as the Morgans.

Rev. Charles Duster (w '56) is with the Office of Vocations, Columbian Fathers in Chicago.

Very pleased to learn that Bernie Hammons has recently transferred back to Denver after assignments with Shell Oil Company in New York and Houston. Bernie is presently assigned as Senior Financial Analyst with Shell's Rocky Mountain Exploration and Production Division.

Don Smith (w '56) and wife Sue (Lenihan) report the birth of their first, Holly Lynn, on February 2, 1973. Don is an Account Executive with Colorado Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Denver.

Paul Murray, looking happy and prosperous, was recently named to the Board of Mercy Hospital in Denver. President of Murray Bros. Distributing Company in Denver, Paul acquired the Glenwood Springs distributorship in 1971, thereby making Murray Bros. the largest independent beer wholesaler in Colorado. Can you imagine having to service Vail and Aspen in the Winter? Gotta be tough.

Meanwhile, I continue on here at KOA Radio (AM & FM) in Denver. In July, I will assume the Presidency of the Colorado Broadcasters Association in Summer convention in Vail. Will probably consume some of Murray's product, too!

I'd like to report about more of you in the next issue of Roundup, so please let me know what you've been doing recently.

George Philbin, M.D. is enjoying a busy medical and surgical practice in the rarefied atmosphere of Leadville, Colorado. George and his wife Betty moved to Leadville with their seven daughters and one son in 1970 after George had practiced in Denver for about ten years. They are starting a charismatic movement in Leadville, patterned after one they observed in Pecos, New Mexico.

Frank Priselac is an English teacher at York Junior High in Thornton, Colorado and his spare time is occupied by his job as Secretary of the Mapleton Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO).

H. Robert Proffitt who was recently elected the President of the Denver Association of Remodeling Contractors, is Finance Manager of K & H Construction Company. He and his wife Arlene have three girls and a boy.

Jack Schafer and his wife Maxine moved to Western Pennsylvania in 1971 when Jack was named Marketing Manager for Dresser Manufacturing. They are enjoying their two children, Stacey Ann (5) and Thomas John (3). For those who have lost contact, their new address is 36 Parkway Lane, Bradford, Pa. 16701.

Paul R. Buhler, who teaches as well as acting as basketball and football assistant coach at Ranum High School, Westminster, Colorado, sends news of several classmates:

Bob Riley, who works for Gulf Oil Company, was a recent houseguest of the Buhlers along with his wife Frances and daughter Bridget.

Bob also tells us that Duane Knight live in Fort Collins and is gainfully employed by the United Bank of Fort Collins. Duane and his wife Regina have four children.

Don Gallegos is the Director of Distribution for King Soopers in Denver. On a recent trip to San Francisco he had the opportunity to visit with Dick Cloughesy who is doing very well as a manufacturers representative in San Francisco. Dick and his wife Joan live in San Jose with a house full of youngsters.

Bob O'Haire has recently been appointed Director of Development and Public Relations for St. Anthony Hospital, Denver. Bob is completing a graduate degree in Public Administration at the University of Colorado.

Bob Kelly is assistant city attorney for the City of Denver. He and his wife Rosie live in Southeast Denver with their four children.

Jack Carraher is busy practicing law in Denver. He and his wife Carol have four children. Jack has been very involved with the Religious Education program at the Church of the Risen Christ in Southeast Denver.

Dear Guys of '53:

Would you believe twenty (20) years ago we talked O'Connell (Via Billy's Inn) to stay at Regis?

Ed Kohl was a guy named "Snake". Joe Albi and Joe Kelley had the only cars on Campus — (more to come). Leo Kerker was practicing "Bookkeeping" — how Father Ryan loved that boy! — All those buys from Silvertone: Don, Sam, Phil and Swanson (Now Don's In-Law); Bill Roley plus those guys (Regis High Grads) how they knew the ropes. Father Karst ruled "Your Late" — "Campus"; Father Bonnet (made you sweat); Good Father Downey — "Just Checking" when you thought you were in free. How about Father Mattione? Passed all us guys who "missed" winking Ollie Olson classes. Ollie and Wild Bill Carson beat Denver University year after year — yet Double L. Varnell with those "Buzz Boys" never had it so good. "Big Tam" Conlon — how sweet he was in those orange shoes.

Rock Roche was Student President; Dick Aller worked all the time. Remember how we made the Freshmen paint DESMET HALL? brown and gold.

Mary Jane O'Hare (Kohl now) was Cornation Ball Queen followed by Katie Jordan (Eckert now) the following year. How Father Faherty lined up those dates — "Modern Women" — (By the way Father Faherty still plays tennis).

Good Bill Smith from Salt Lake — how he made those dances go with his decorations at Lakewood Country Club. Mike Groshek had the only new Basketball Uniform no. 20. For some reason we always lost to O'Leary & Brown (plus the make-up crew from Slims) in softball.

Tom Earley was leader at the B.I. — How about those first TV Shows — "Hit Parade" and how we enjoyed selling blood at Colorado General Hospital to pay for our dates at the MON-VUE-or on to Boulder's Tologies — 50 cents for pitcher of good Old Coors. Gene Ditola — best 2nd baseman in League — (MM) Paul Toner and his Duffy's Inn — what a St. Paddy Day we had down there! Rufus Berver — only married man on Campus — followed by Kerker.

Big Simon — all those Defensive and Offensive battles he had with Vince.

Jim Flynn and his employment he secured for us — working at the Dog Track, LaPorte. He's a priest now — also Hanifen, and Frank Corry — and those guys from Milwaukee.

But — more to come — Paul Toner has accepted to be Chairman for the Class of '53. "20 years from College". He is working out a big weekend — August 9, 10, 11 and 12. It sure would be nice to see you guys again — Why don't you plan to attend — bring the family. We can sweat over old times. You have time — to plan — So drop the College or Paul a note to confirm your reservations. OK?

NOTES:

Peter J. Mulvaney has practiced law in Cheyenne for fifteen years and has been in the Wyoming Legislature since 1967. He was Minority Leader in 1973. Peter is moving to Kansas City to join the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures and has four children.

Leonard Pollack has been elected president of the North Denver Civic Association. A resident of North Denver for twenty years, Leonard is also president of Saint Catherine's Parish Council, is a boy scout troop committee chairman and serves on the Catholic Committee for Scouting.

Joe Albi heads the Colorado Centennial-Bicentennial Commission as executive director until 1977.

Jerald Beavers has been working as county director for the Phillips County Department of Public Welfare since 1972 in Holyoke, Colorado.

"Summer Spectacular" Slated for August

The first annual Regis Summer Spectacular will take place August 8 through August 13, featuring picnics, reunions, dormitory living, educational seminars and a mountain cookout. The major event, as in past years, will be the alumni picnic which was attended by more than 500 people last year. At $6.00 per family this is the best buy in town.

Housing for out of town families will be provided in beautiful new West Hall. Air conditioned West Hall rooms contain twin beds and every two rooms are connected by a private bath. The rooms will be available from noon on Wednesday, August 8 through 11:00 a.m., Monday, August 13.

Three educational seminars dealing with the general theme of Future Shock-Living Tomorrow will be held Friday, August 10. Mini-Course No. 1 will deal with Future Shock in Politics and Education. Mini-Course No. 2 will grapple with Super Change and Family Living, while Mini-Course No. 3 will concern itself with the Biological Manipulation of Man.

Reunions for the classes of 1948, 1953, 1958 and 1963 will be a part of the Regis Summer Spectacular. Chairmen (1948-Bob Boland; 1953-Paul Toner; 1958-Don Champeau; 1963-Joe Fanganello) are notifying their classmates concerning specific reunion activities. Don't be left out!

Other activities for the family include a mountain cookout, swimming, tennis, ball games and use of the gymnasium.

For further information contact your reunion chairman or Larry Durance at Regis College, West 50th and Lowell Boulevard, Denver, Colorado 80221.

Priest in Coed Dorm

"The Priest in the Coed Dorm" was the title of an article about President Clarke which appeared in the March 18 issue of Empire Magazine, the Sunday supplement to the Denver Post.

The article describes in pictures and words the experiences of Father Clarke since he moved into a dormitory room in West Hall rather than the Jesuit Community residence in Main Hall where he does break bread with other members of the order.

Father Clarke who holds degrees in theology, philosophy, physical chemistry and organic chemistry, occupies Room

124 plus an adjoining room separated by a private bath. More than 50 girls live on the same floor. Male students occupy the second floor and the third floor is coed.

"When he finds time from his busy schedule, Father Clarke 'raps' with girls, stops for cookies or doughnuts with some of them in a small lounge near his room, meets informally with a larger group in the main lounge, attends wing meetings where various activities or problems are discussed, and plays a pretty tough game of table tennis," the article observes.

Father Maguire Passes Away

Rev. Edward F. Maguire, S.J., dean of students at Regis High School, died Sunday, May 27, at St. Joseph's Hospital after a heart attack.

Father Maguire, 48, was born May 19, 1925, in Denver and was graduated from Regis High School after attending Blessed Sacrament Elementary School in Denver. He held B.A., M.A. and B.S.T. (Bachelor of Sacred Theology) degrees from Saint Louis University in St. Louis, Mo.

He entered the Society of Jesus May 15, 1943, in Florissant, Mo. and was ordained June 18, 1956, in Denver.

After serving as assistant principal at Rockhurst High School in Kansas City, Mo. for five years, Father Maguire taught and served as varsity football coach at Kapaun High School in Wichita, Kan. for six years. He has been on the Regis High School faculty since the fall of 1971 and also has been serving as assistant pastor at Sts. Peter and Paul's Church, 3900 Pierce St., Wheat Ridge.

Surviving Father Maguire are a sister, Mrs. Edward L. Curran of Denver; seven nephews, Michael A., Edward L., James Paul, John, David W., Stephen, and Adrian F. Curran, and three nieces.

160 Graduate at Ceremonies

An outdoor ceremony was held Sunday, May 13 for the more than 160 Regis College Seniors who received their degrees at this year's commencement exercises.

Degrees were conferred under balmy skies in front of Main Hall by President David M. Clarke, S.J. after an address by the Most Rev. George R. Evans, auxiliary bishop of Denver. Bishop Evans was also awarded an honorary degree of doctor in humanities. He is a graduate of Regis High School.

David J. Meiners of St. Louis, Mo., class president, spoke for the class and Thomas V. Balakas, Westchester, Ill., served as master of ceremonies. Carol A. Tynan, 5665 W. Mansfield, Denver, delivered the invocation and Raymond R. Maddock, Jr., Florissant, Mo., delivered the benediction.

More than one-third of this year's graduates were women.

Athletic Club on May 24. The required ten signatures for forming a chapter were obtained and both Ted and Tom are to be congratulated for their efforts.

ST. LOUIS: Sam O'Neal, ('58) and Bob Vescovo ('61) announced a Student Welcome Party Brunch at the Forest Hill Country Club in Chesterfield, MO for July 29. Alumni, parents and students in the St. Louis area may receive details by calling Bob Vescovo at 391-0240.

SAN FRANCISCO: Dr. and Mrs. Dave Eby, ('60) hosted an alumni party in their home on Saturday, July 14. Chapter formation for the Bay Area Alumni was discussed. Fr. William T. Miller, S.J., Chairman of the Regis Chemistry Department and a member of the Regis Board of Trustees joined in the festivities.

Noted Artist Speaks at Regis

Mrs. Troy Tabor, noted Honolulu painter, presented an illustrated lecture and exhibit in the Dayton Memorial Library in April. Included were thirty silk hangings, paintings and prints open for public viewing in the library as part of a lecture series sponsored by Dr. Alice Fehrenbach, professor of Psychology, in memory of her husband, the late Carl Fehrenbach.

Why will Regis receive more than $173,648 in bequests between January 1, 1972 and December 31, 1973?

The simple truth is that generous and foresighted people desire to leave something of themselves to perpetuate the quality of a Regis education and the Jesuit influence in the Rocky Mountain region. For many reasons these people loved Regis and the things for which it stands.

Who were these people?

Miss F: A single lady who lived close by the campus and had developed a fondness for Regis. $55,000.

Mr. F: A Regis College alumnus of the thirties. A real booster of everything for which Regis stands. $75,000.

Mrs. W: A member of a prominent Denver family who wished to provide education for needy young people. $35,000.

Mrs. S: A complete stranger to Regis. Her attorney suggested that Regis would be a fitting and proper place to perpetuate her beliefs. $6,264.

Mr. B: A widower with no ties to Regis but who somehow was a believer in Regis and the Jesuits. $7,384.

The family name of each will be perpetuated for all time at Regis College and remembered in the Masses of hundreds of Jesuit priests.

If you are desirous of joining in the fine work at Regis by including the College or High School in your will we suggest you talk this over with your attorney or advisor or you may contact Father Jerome B. Coll, S.J., Assistant to the President, Regis College, Denver, Colorado 80221, 303-433-8471.

Bishop, Sidney W., Vice President & General Counsel Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Company, Los Angeles. The company is an industry leader in the mass-merchandising of insurance related products.

Curtis, Fr. Howard, OCSU., Trappist Monk who has regained his baptismal name.

Gargan, Thomas J., Named Denver Area Catholic Scouting Committee Area Lay Chairman, Denver Diocese.

Markey, Sister M. Campion, Assistant Principal — Teaches Business Courses-Norfolk Catholic High School, Norfolk, Nebraska. Received Master of Arts degree in Business — CSU — March 1972.

Marrinzino, Albert P., In Brazil as a Science Advisor to the Minister of Mines and Energy in the construction of laboratories and the training of scientists for the exploration of natural resources. He is a supervisory research chemist with the USGS. Home is still Denver.

1973 Civis Princeps Winners

More than 300 people gathered at the Brown Palace Hotel April 18 to honor three prominent Coloradans and the School of Mines during the annual Civis Princeps (First Citizen) Awards Banquet. The recipients, pictured left to right, are: Robert Person, President of the Public Service Company of Colorado, (Commerce); Maurice Mitchell, Chancellor of the University of Denver (education); Judge Brofman (who presented the awards); and Lena Archuleta, (humanities). The general chairman of the 1973 Awards Banquet was Shelby F. Harper, Denver businessman and former chairman of the Denver Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, former President of the Denver Rotary Club and the University of Denver National Alumni Association, and the first chairman of the Colorado Commission of Higher Education. Richard Goodwin, President of the Denver-based Johns-Manville Corporation served as speaker at the dinner. Mrs. Howard Cherne of Denver was chairman of the arrangements committee and David Brofman, Judge of the Denver Probate Court, served as chairman of the evaluation and selection Committee.

Sports Wrap-up

By: David Foxhoven
Sports Information Director

The second semester of the 1972-73 academic year produced many unexpected events in the Regis Athletic Department and the Basketball program seemed to hold the spotlight.

The Basketball team, lead by Tony DuCros and Dave Meller, finished the 1972-73 season with 14 wins and 11 losses. But this was only to last a short time. The Rangers were forced to forfeit eight games due to the ineligibility of Frank Jefferson. This startling event was overshadowed by the announcement of Wayne Monson, Basketball Coach, that he planned to retire to enter private business. James Karabetos has since been named to replace Monson as head coach. A former teammate of Monson's at Northern Michigan University, Karabetos has served as Head Basketball Coach at Denver University, 1971-72, and assistant coach at Kansas University this past year. After viewing video tapes of last year's team and a vigorous recruiting program, Karabetos is optimistic about next year's Basketball program.

With the advent of Spring, Baseball, Tennis, Golf, and Track, blossomed into competition. Progress was hindered by the lack of practice time outside due to the weather condition.

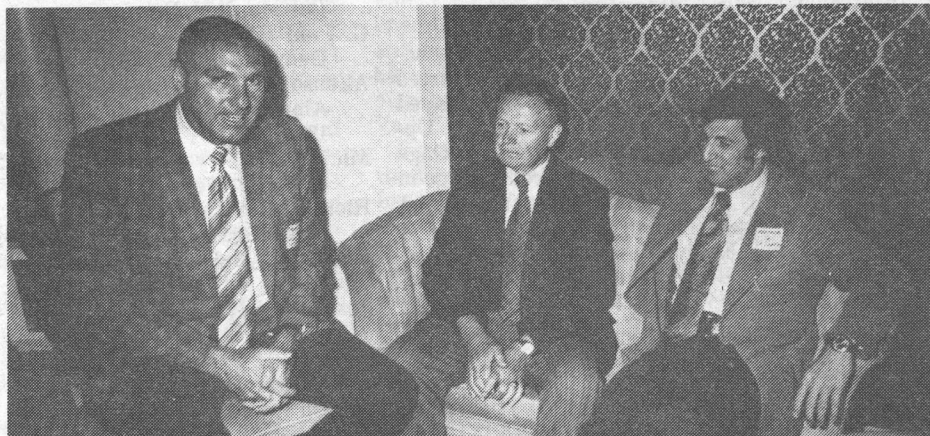

Although the Baseball team was able to defeat such noted powers as Colorado State University and Wyoming University, the Rangers were only able to put together a 7-14 record. The problem seemed to lie in the lack of depth, especially in the pitching staff. Snow and wet grounds again played havoc with the schedule early in the season forcing the cancellation of six games. Sam Radovich lead almost every hitting department on the Regis stats, and gained national recognition as one of the top 50 hitters in the final NAIA Baseball report. First year coach, Bill Meyn is also very optimistic about next year's Baseball program.

The two newest Spring Sports, Golf and Tennis, have grown in popularity very fast the last few years. Although neither team fared as well as hoped this year, each should return even stronger next year. Golf Coach Lou Kellogg will have five experienced players leading his team into competition. Included will be leading medalists Dennis McLaughlin and Jim Watson. Although no one has been named to replace Wayne Monson as Tennis Coach, it is apparent that Regis will be a leading contender with Vic Aguilar and Bill Kent returning to the courts.

One Intercollegiate sport will be dropped from the 1973-74 Regis Athletic program. Track will not return next year due to the lack of interest and financial support. It is a grave disappointment for the men who competed on this year's team. Their individual efforts were outstanding but the team could not measure up to the level of the larger schools.

This year's accomplishments on the athletic fields can be classified as average for a Regis program. But next year can be the beginning of something that has not been seen on campus for a long time, and that is an athletic program that compliments the academic program.

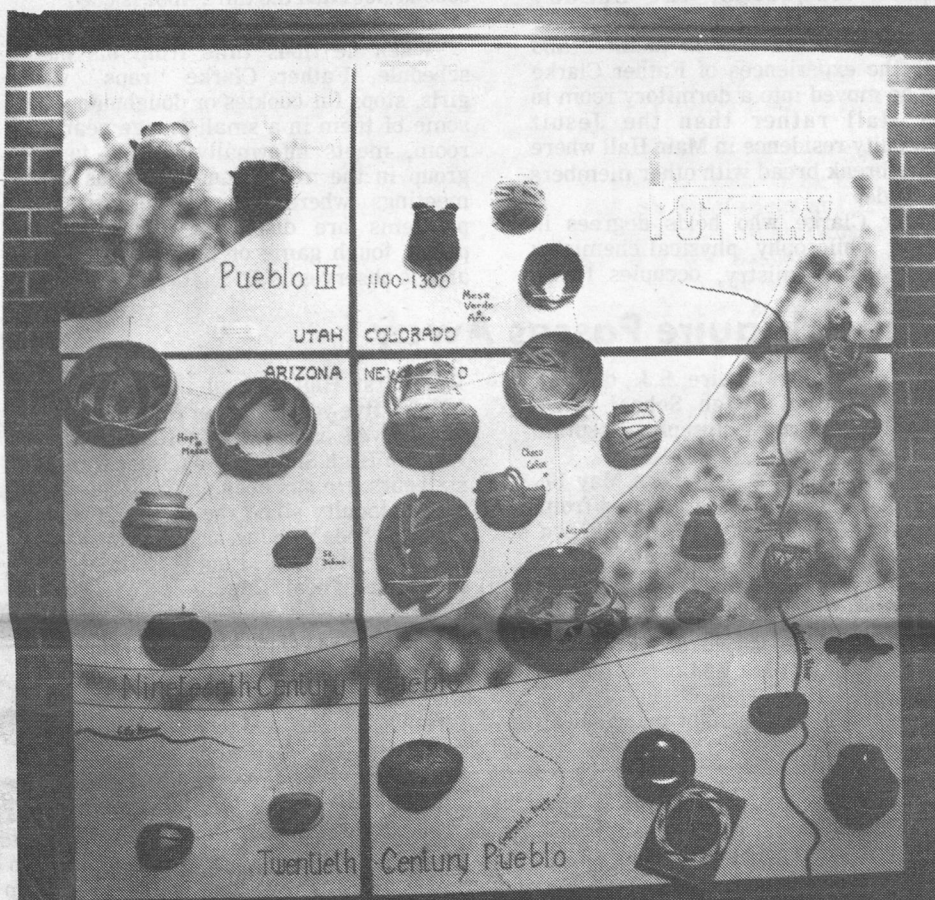

Alex Hannum, left, coach and general manager of the Denver Rockets, chats with James Karabetos, right, new Regis College basketball coach, and Clarence (Lou) Kellogg, director of athletics at Regis. Karabetos was welcomed to Denver at a luncheon meeting at the Denver Athletic Club May 30, at which both Hannum and Kellogg spoke briefly.

The display in the Science Building arranges the finer pieces of the Regis College collection so as to illustrate both the chronological spread of a millenium and the geographical range of fifty thousand square miles.

Cultural Treasure

Hopi area in northern Arizona, and a little from the Gila River area further south in the same state. Furthermore, there was an interesting if spotty collection of pottery from the very end of the nineteenth century — including a good deal of what is jestingly referred to among anthropologists as "Early American Tourist." But the collection does include some of the first attempts at the "archaic" style which has since become the dominant trend in Pueblo pottery: imitations of the shapes, colors, and design-patterns which the earliest anthropologists in the southwest excavated — often while employing descendants of the original dwellers as laborers and cooks. The Pueblo women of the end of the last century, frequently on the suggestion of anthropologists, imitated the older artifacts as best they could and thereby started the vigorous contemporary pottery tradition.

All this material, supplemented by a few borrowed pieces and some purchased for the purpose, now form a large display in the main lobby of the Science Building, where after seventy-five years of anonymity each of them has once again been labeled by period and place of origin and thus constitutes a cultural treasure-trove and a valuable teaching device for minority studies and anthropology alike.

EDS NOTE: Fr. Steele has taught English at Regis since 1968 and has spent his summers from 1969 to the present researching the Spanish heritage of the Southwest operating out of Albuquerque. He plans to complete a book based upon his research this summer. Father Steele collected Spanish artifacts for several years before coming to Regis.

Father Clarke told the audience, that Regis was proud of the record its graduates had made.

"Regis is not a training ground designed to equip graduates to step into a specific job as a store manager or personnel director. If it were, it would represent a colossal waste of time and talent. Our job is to equip our students to learn, to adapt to new situations, to cope with the inefficiency of other human beings, to understand logic and people. We think we are doing this better than ever before."

In discussing the "tyrannies of American life," Father Clarke noted the encroachment of the public sector into the private sector, to the danger of private education, especially in the areas of tax law revisions and the autonomy of some federal agencies.

"We feel that the nation has a strong need for independent schools as a real alternative and counter-balance of the growing number of schools that are controlled by governmental agencies," he said.

"We must find viable solutions for the survival of independent schools, which cannot be independent with the support of the American People."

Subsequent Roundtable luncheons were addressed by John Flood, assistant professor of Business Administration, and Dale Tooley, Denver District Attorney.
